FIRST RETURNS ON ELECTION!

FAIR WEATHER PREVAILS, BRINGING RECORD TOTAL OF BALLOTS AT ELECTION

More Than 30,000,000 Voters to Visit Polls Throughout Nation, Predict Managers For Candidates; Republican Victory Looms

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—With fair weather reported in all parts of the country, American voters in numbers never before equalled are making their quadrennial march to the polls today. Upon the verdict they render there depends the character of the national government for four years, depends the local governments in thirty-three states, the complexion of Congress—and perhaps may depend the course of world history.

At least, 30,000,000 voters will have registered their preference before the polls close tonight, according to the estimates of all party managers, and they would not be surprised if the total reaches 35,000,000. Either figure will establish a new high record in popular suffrage, not only in the United States, but in the world.

Fair Weather Prevails
The leaders of all parties found satisfaction in the fair weather reports from the country.

"The larger the vote the more decisive the victory," said William M. Butler, generalissimo of the Coolidge forces.

"Fair weather will bring out the great silent vote which can be depended upon to elect John W. Davis," said the Democratic managers.

And—

"Fair weather will allow the farmers and the people in remote rural sections of the west to get to the polls, and that spells Progressive triumph," declared the La Follette-Independent leaders.

General Vote Appeal
President Coolidge, John W. Davis and political lesser lights everywhere joined in a common appeal to the American citizen to vote.

"Vote anyway you please, but vote."

This was the burden of their plea. It was almost, but not quite, non-partisan.

In his closing message to the American electorate, conveyed by radio to millions of unseen listeners, President Coolidge made a veiled thrust at the La Follette-

TWO JUDGES KILLED IN RIOTING

Shot Down at Polls as Dispute Occurs Over Custody of Ballots

LEXINGTON, Tenn., Nov. 4.—C. W. Bartholomew and W. W. Rogers, election judges, were killed and J. L. Bartholomew was seriously injured in a riot at the polls here today. Dan G. Powers, a farmer, and a Republican, is charged with the shooting.

The trouble is said to have started when Powers appeared at the polls and demanded that the ballot box be turned over to him, stating that he had been duly named as an election official.

An argument ensued during which Bartholomew was killed outright. A minute later Rogers intervened as a peace-maker and fell mortally wounded. Bartholomew is believed by physicians to be fatally injured.

Powers escaped in an automobile after the shooting.

MADRID, Nov. 4.—King Alfonso has left for Bordeaux with his infant son, Jaime. The boy will be examined by Dr. Moura.

HEAVY GALE HITS AT PUGET SOUND

Rain Driven by 43-Mile Wind Ushers In Election Day at Seattle

SEATTLE, Nov. 4.—Election day was ushered in for Seattle and the entire Puget Sound region with a forty-three mile gale driving rain before it and state political leaders hastily revised their predictions of a record vote of 450,000 in the state as they commended thousands of automobiles to take the voters to the polls.

Rain and gales were forecast for the remainder of the day and no relief from storms which have beset the region since October 23 was promised by the weather forecasters until late Wednesday.

The gale reached its maximum strength in Seattle at 7:40 a. m., with a velocity of forty-three miles an hour. The government weather station at Tatoosh island, at the entrance to the straits of Juan De Fuca reported a fifty-two mile gale there Monday night and a forty-eight mile gale early this morning.

Voters Storm Polls In Record L. A. Balloting

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4.—An early rush of voters, unprecedented in the political history of Los Angeles, marked voting here today despite a fog which enveloped the city. The rush was reported so great as to have partially overwhelmed election officials in many precincts.

Coolidge was a 10 to 1 favorite in election day betting to carry Los Angeles county and even many bets were made that the Republicans would carry the county by 60,000 votes.

Doheny In Early Rush To Vote for Coolidge

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4.—E. L. Doheny, California oil millionaire, central figure in the government's fight to cancel naval oil leases, was among the early voters here today. Mr. and Mrs. Doheny and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Doheny, Jr., all cast their ballots early and voted for Coolidge, it was announced at Doheny's office.

San Diego Expects 75 Per Cent of Voters Out

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 4.—Swinging in line with the rest of the nation, San Diego city and county voters went to the polls today and cast their ballots in the national election. Early indications were that the voting would be brisk and at least 75 per cent of the total registration was expected before midnight.

MARKETS CLOSED

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—The Board of Trade and all other markets here were closed today in observance of election day.

Here Is How Six Leading Candidates Spend Election Day

This is what the candidates are doing today:

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE—Conducting business as usual and receiving returns tonight in the White House, he having voted by mail earlier in the week. The ballot went to Northampton, Mass.

JOHN W. DAVIS—Resting at home in Locust Valley, L. I. He voted this morning in the courthouse at Locust Valley.

ROBERT M. LA FOLLETTE—Spending the day at his home in Madison, Wis., and voting in the courthouse basement there.

CHARLES G. DAWES—Smoking his pipe at Evanston, Ill., his home, where he will vote today.

GOVERNOR CHARLES W. BRYAN—At his office in Lincoln, Neb., planning to vote across the street in the state senate chamber.

SENATOR BURTON K. WHEELER—Resting in Washington, his ballot in the mails for Butte, Mont., his home.

MRS. HARDING IMPROVING, IS BELIEF

Condition Better But Heart May Give Out as Result Of Terrific Strain

MARION, Ohio, Nov. 4.—The condition of Mrs. Warren G. Harding, widow of President Harding, was somewhat better today.

"She had a fairly good night," Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, her physician, said.

"She was restless up until about 1 a. m., then went to sleep and had anywhere from three to five hours' sleep."

Dr. Sawyer explained he did not disturb Mrs. Harding until after 9 o'clock.

"This morning Mrs. Harding seems stronger and somewhat better," he said.

Dr. Sawyer added that Mrs. Harding's good kidney was working better. Her inability to take food is disquieting. A mass has formed in her abdomen. The nature of this has not been clearly diagnosed. It may be a growth or a condition due to the liver, Dr. Sawyer said.

"While I do not anticipate any immediate danger," Dr. Sawyer continued, "we, of course, cannot tell what may happen any moment. We are watching her heart action, which so far has been fairly good. It may give out under the terrible strain."

Dr. Sawyer has kept in constant touch with Dr. Charles Mayo by wire since Mrs. Harding's most recent attack. Dr. Mayo saw her when Mrs. Harding was ill in the White House.

"We have not asked Dr. Mayo to come here, but we are keeping him advised of Mrs. Harding's condition," Dr. Sawyer said.

Denby Fails to Cast Ballot In Election

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4.—For the first time in many years Edwin Denby, former secretary of the navy, failed to cast a ballot today. Called here as a witness in the government suit to cancel Doheny oil leases, Denby failed to receive an absent voter's ballot from his home in Detroit in time to cast his vote.

"I would have voted for Coolidge and Dawes," Denby said today.

CIVIC CENTER BOND ISSUE COMES TO DECISION

Heavy Vote Being Polled In Glendale on Local, State And National Issues

With ideal weather prevailing, Glendale is today voting on local, county, state and national issues. There is every indication a record vote will be polled.

The polls opened at 6 a. m. and found hundreds waiting to cast their ballots. The polls will close at 7 p. m. There are about 16,000 registered voters and, it is predicted, close to 75 per cent of the registered vote will be cast.

Locally, Glendale is voting on a civic center bond issue totaling $650,000. It is proposed to purchase the Harvard High school site for a city hall and civic center. The same issue was voted down at the primaries.

$5,000,000 Bond Issue
Glendale is also voting on a proposed county bond issue of $5,000,000 for the purpose of eliminating grade crossings.

The city is also voting on eight state measures relative to taxes, water and power, boxing, and other issues.

Also, Glendale is voting on county officers, including judges. The city is also voting on congressional and legislative candidates.

Swamp Voting Places
Election enthusiasm was at a white heat in Glendale by noon today. The rush to the thirty-eight polling places throughout the city commenced before 7 o'clock and increased in volume as the day wore on. Reports coming into the office of City Clerk A. J. Van Wie were that the avalanche of voters, unprecedented in the history of the city, had in many instances completely overwhelmed the election officials, who found themselves incapable of coping with the large crowds.

Calls for extra voting booths and ballot boxes were sent in from many sections.

By noon time, precincts were reporting from 200 to 400 votes cast in almost all instances. This is a general average of 25 per cent increase over the heaviest balloting ever recorded in past years, according to city officials.

Indications were that even this margin of increase would be greater by the time the polls closed at 7 o'clock.

Reports from North Glendale, coming in shortly after noon, were that many had visited the polls.

CLOSE FIGHT TO SECURE CONGRESS CONTROL

Balance of Power Held By La Follette May Be Overturned Today

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The course of the nation's legislative future in the sixty-ninth congress was at stake today in the battle of the polls between the forces of conservatism and radicalism for control of the next United States senate.

With thirty-two seats under contest in today's election—Senator Fernald, Republican of Maine, having been re-elected in September—there was a possibility that the results would overthrow the balance of power held for the last two years by the La Follette insurgent bloc. This phase of the senatorial election overshadowed the fight for "papers" majorities between the Republican and Democratic organizations.

Republicans Need 20
To end La Follette's domination, the "Republicans, however, would have to elect at least twenty of their organization candidates while the Democrats, to swing their party into undisputed control, would have to carry at least twenty-three contested seats. Due to the seeming impossibility of a landslide victory of such proportions for either old party, indications pointed to a continuance of La Follette's control in the next senate—even though his domination may not be as strong as in the present congress.

Spokesmen for both the old parties issued statements claiming a complete victory in today's election. For the Republicans, Senator George H. Moses, chairman of the senatorial committee, predicted a sweeping victory for his party's candidates.

Democratic Forecast
He pointed out, however, that to win control, the Republicans would have to beat every Democratic nominee in the north, east and the border states. For the Democrats, Senator Key Pittman, one of the Davis campaign managers, forecast a Democratic senate. He declared the Democrats would win twenty-four of the contested seats, re-elect all their own members and defeating incumbent Republicans in nine other states. Of the thirty-two seats at stake, sixteen have been held in the present senate by Republicans, fifteen by Democrats and one by Magnus Johnson, the Farmer-Laborite of Minnesota.

COOLIDGE IS CONFIDENT OF ELECTION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—President Coolidge told White House callers this afternoon that he believed he was assured of at least 363 votes in the electoral college as a result of the day's balloting. This information, it was stated, was given to the president by the Republican National committee, which figured an additional seventy electoral votes as doubtful, but thought that Mr. Coolidge had an even chance to get at least half of these. On the basis of this calculation, the president's total electoral vote would be 398, or 132 more than a bare majority.

Coolidge's Fate In Hands of Voters

14 Times; 1 Defeat

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Calvin Coolidge is putting his political fortunes in the hands of the voters for the fourteenth time today. Only once—and very early in his career—has he been defeated. The political ladder the president has scaled in competition at the polls reads as follows:

Councilman, city solicitor, clerk of court, chairman of the city committee, twice elected to the state legislature, mayor, twice elected to the state senate, lieutenant-governor, governor, vice president.

The one time that he was defeated can be attributed to his honeymoon. Shortly before his marriage to Mrs. Coolidge, the president entered a three-cornered fight for membership on the school board of Northampton, Mass. When he returned from his honeymoon it was too late to withdraw and the Democrat was elected.

Tonight the president and Mrs. Coolidge will receive election returns jointly over a special telegraph wire and the radio.

REPUBLICANS CERTAIN OF SUCCESS

Pacific Coast States Sure For Coolidge, Is Claim By Party Leaders

By ELLIS H. MARTIN
For International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4.—Generally favorable weather coupled with a record-breaking registration and sustained interest to the last minute of the campaign was expected to bring out an unprecedented vote on the Pacific coast today.

Early estimates of a heavy vote in the Northern Pacific states were heavily reduced when a storm swept in from sea today, accompanied by heavy rain over both Washington and Oregon.

In California, Republican leaders were counting on the overwhelming Republican registration to give Coolidge a handsome plurality. Of the 1,822,357 voters eligible to go to the polls today, 1,183,672 registered as Republicans, 397,092 as Democrats and 195,192 refused to state their party affiliation.

Various Claims
State Chairman Neumiller predicted a plurality of 150,000 or more for Coolidge in California while State Campaign Manager Havenner claimed the state by 75,000 for La Follette while Democratic Chairman Whiting predicted a repetition of the 1916 election when the Democrats in a close fight won the state.

Outside of California, interest centered in Washington where La Follette supporters have made a strong campaign and were claiming victory. This state was admittedly close.

Claims Conflicting
Republican leaders in Oregon were reported confident as the voters went to the polls today while Democratic and La Follette leaders were likewise reported optimistic. Re-election of Senator McNary was expected in Oregon.

Hot fights in Nevada and Arizona came to a close today and like other western states claims were conflicting.

Reports indicated that a determined effort was being made to get the vote out throughout all of the Pacific states. In California many state amendments were being voted on as well as state legislative candidates.

RAINS KEEP DOWN VOTES IN OREGON

Muddy Roads Will Prevent Farmers Reaching Polls In Many Sections

The district weather office here predicted intermittent rains for western Oregon and Washington throughout the day, with a possibility that the near storm condition would reach the eastern sections of the two states.

Continued rains of the past week, which choked up many roads with mud and water, were expected to materially reduce the vote in farming communities.

RECORD VOTE IS BEING CAST TODAY

Fair Weather Helps to Bring Out Big Total; Various Leaders Confident

Independents by alluding to them as "an element of discontent, an element inspired with more zeal than knowledge."

Only a few moments before, the president had listened to his chief rival, John W. Davis, speaking to this same invisible audience, appeal to the "moral sense of the American people" to rise up to the ballot boxes today and vote out of power an administration "streaked with corruption."

Republicans Confident

"God defend the right," was the fervent and final plea that Davis left with the voters.

There was no last minute or eleventh hour revisions of the forecasts which all party managers have been making in such profusion for a week past.

Republicans leaders said they saw no reason to change their prophecies of a majority in the electoral college for Coolidge running anywhere from 10 to 175 votes. The first figure represents their minimum expectation, the last constitutes all they possibly can expect, and would allow Davis nothing but the solid south that Cox carried, and allow La Follette virtually nothing.

No Chance for Davis

Democratic leaders are more quietly conservative. It would be untrue to say that all of the Democratic managers are confident of victory, for some of them are not. With Coolidge sweeping the conservative east, and with La Follette setting the prairies afire in the west, some Democratic leaders privately confess the Davis hope is a forlorn one. But there are none of them who consider his cause hopeless and many of them are sincerely confident that the public expectation of a Coolidge victory is due for a surprising shock.

The whole question, say the more astute Democratic leaders, smolders down to this:

How strong is La Follette? This is the great enigma of today's election. And whoever can supply the answer can predict the outcome of the balloting.

See Hope In Congress

If, say the Democrats, La Follette is confined to capturing his own Wisconsin and perhaps North Dakota, and Coolidge runs the race in the east that is generally expected to run, then Davis' case is well nigh hopeless.

But, on the other hand, the tide of discontent and dissatisfaction that is the warp and woof of the independent movement runs wild in the west, spreads out over the borders of Wisconsin and North Dakota, and seeps down into Iowa, Nebraska and up into Montana, Wyoming and Washington, then the Davis cause is not hopeless, but is a strong and militant factor, whether the election is thrown into Congress or not.

And if the election is thrown into the House of Representatives for the first time in a century, there are few Democrats who do not believe that John W. Davis will be next president. It is doubtful if any other single individual in American political history ever occupied such a potentially vital position on election as La Follette does today.

Klan Looms In Fight

Democracy's hopes east of the Mississippi river are centered chiefly in a few states that might be called pivotal and close.

Indiana is one. New Jersey is another. In both states the national ticket has been helped by conditions that prevail locally.

In Indiana, always a doubtful state, the Democrats have been helped by the Ku Klux Klan fight over the state ticket, and the fact that the last Republican governor is now occupying a cell in Atlanta penitentiary.

The Klan is backing Ed Jackson, the Republican candidate for governor and this fact has alienated a considerable portion of the negro vote which has always been Republican.

In New Jersey there is also the Klan factor affecting the Republicans and what is considered by some leaders more important, the wet and dry factors. This latter is inter-twined in the fight for the Senate between Edge, the Republican incumbent, and Donnelly, the Democratic aspirant, who has

Chief Fraser Is Thanked for Returning Children to

Royle were instrumental in returning unharmed their two young children, Ned and Jo Ann, aged eight and ten, who got lost in the Hallow-Kiwanis parade.

"Because by the incident there was created a deep and sincere appreciation of the services rendered," the letter concluded, "we want to tender our most earnest thanks to the officers who took charge of the children and brought them safely back home, and to express our appreciation to your department and what it means to Glendale."

Twenty children were lost Halloween night and safely returned to their parents, according to Chief Fraser.

long been an opponent of Volsteadism.

Fear Popular Vote

In these two states and in Rhode Island and Delaware, both small states, the Democrats believe they have their best chance east of the Mississippi and north of the Mason-Dixon line. Of course, they count on the border states—Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky, Missouri, Oklahoma.

Given these with the solid south and what they believe "a fighting chance" at New York, due to a labor drift away from La Follette in the empire state, and the Democrats say they will take their chances in the electoral college or in Congress.

The Republicans, of course, concede no such chances for the Democrats either in Indiana, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Delaware or the border states. They say Davis will not carry a single state east of the Mississippi and north of the line.

Neither the Democrats or Republicans will concede La Follette a chance in any state east of the Mississippi, although they freely anticipate, or rather fear, that the popular vote which the Wisconsin insurgent will roll up in the great industrial states of the east is going to be enormous.

All except the most extreme partisans among the Republicans, however, concede him a minimum of two states—his own Wisconsin and North Dakota.

Early Returns for Coolidge

With these as the bedrock foundation of the La Follette structure, the Progressive managers are claiming anywhere up to ten states west of the Mississippi. They claim Minnesota and her southern neighbor, Iowa. They claim South Dakota, and her southern neighbor, Nebraska, and then swinging northwest they claim Montana, Wyoming, Washington, Nevada and California.

If these Progressive hopes are realized, then an election by Congress no longer becomes a possibility. It becomes a very probable probability. The east alone cannot elect a president. That was proven in 1916 when Wilson lost it overwhelmingly to Hughes. Democratic managers were issuing warnings today against any "false impressions" being created early in tonight's returns. They pointed out that the first returns to come in will be from the New England states and from the Atlantic seaboard generally—all conceded Coolidge territory, save possibly New Jersey and Delaware—and it will be late, they say, before the real result of today's record-breaking vote can be ascertained.

She Minded Baby When Picture Was Taken; Fixes Date

Editor, The Evening News:—In The Glendale Evening News I noticed where there is a picture of Glendale as it is today and as you say it was around 1918. But I wish to inform you that that picture was taken in 1914. Where you see those three men standing, I was right behind them, when I was little. I was minding the baby in the carriage. So that's how I know when it was taken. I am going to send my copy right back to New York. Also one to Jersey City, N. J. We all think a lot of Glendale, even if we live in Burbank.

MRS. G. HAMANN, 426 N. Valencia St. Burbank.

INCREASE IN POPULATION STEADY

Meters Show 764 Residents Added To City During Preceding Month

A total of 764 new residents were added to the population of Glendale during the past month, according to estimates obtained from checking the gas and electric meters installed in the city during the thirty-day period just closed. At this rate, which has been consistent during the year now drawing to a close, Glendale will have added to its population approximately 10,000 people during 1924, bringing the total population on January 1, 1925, to nearly 60,000.

During the month ending October 25, 189 gas meters were installed within the city limits, according to records in the office of S. C. Singer, division manager, Southern California Gas Co., 124 North Maryland avenue. This brings the number of gas meters in service to 13,071.

Electric Meters

During the month ending October 31, 193 electric meters were installed within the city limits, according to records in the office of J. F. McIntyre, commercial agent of the city of Glendale, with offices at the City Hall on East Broadway. This brings the number of electric meters in service to 13,846.

Averaging these two monthly installation figures of 189 and 193, then multiplying by four, the commonly accepted population index used in connection with gas and electric meters, the total of 764 new residents added to the city's population during October is obtained.

A total of 2051 gas meters have been installed within the Glendale city limits during the past ten months, and a total of 2078 electric meters have been installed during the same period, the records show. Averaging these figures and multiplying by four, it is seen that a total estimated population of 8257 has been added during the past ten months.

RAIN TO PUT END TO POWER SAVING

State Railroad Commission Says Fall To Automatically End Water Campaign

To the musical tattoo of the next raindrops, if they fall to the extent of one inch or thereabouts, will come to an automatic end the electric power saving campaign that has ruled throughout Southern California since July 1 last. Barring that signal from the heavens, the restrictions on the use of power will, if no serious accidents occur to steam plants now used to eke out the hydro supply, be off on December 1, according to announcement made after a conference of Power Supervisor H. G. Butler and Assistant General Manager F. B. Lewis of the Southern California Edison Co.

During the past week, for the first time in many months, there has been a net inflow in Huntington lake, Edison's storage reservoir, which halted the draft on that reserve hydro-power. On Wednesday last there was no draft and 106 acre-feet inflow, due to the recent rain; on Thursday, sixteen acre-feet were used and thirty-three ran in; on Friday there was no draft and a net gain of thirty-four acre-feet.

Still Conserving

Street cars, dredgers, cement plants, rock companies, and industries generally are still on a curtailment of about 20 per cent and agriculture is under orders to do 10 per cent of its irrigation at night.

With the end near for the necessity for power saving, praise is heard for the qualities of firmness, tact, consideration and quiet efficiency shown by the power supervisor. Occupying a buffer position between the public utilities companies and consumers, he has performed the near-miracle of satisfying all parties and bringing about civic team-work which has averted what would have been serious results under a less efficient hand.

Mr. Butler is not an attaché of the California state railroad commission, which selected him for the post, but is a private consulting engineer of San Francisco and was chosen because of the skill he displayed in similar executive work during war-time conservation.

MUSICAL IS WELCOMED BY CITY

Combined Efforts Symphony And Choral Club Receive Hearty Approval

Glendale's claim to being one of the musical cities of the southland was justified last night, when the Glendale Choral club and the Glendale Symphony orchestra, under direction of J. Arthur Myers, presented Frederick H. Cowen's cantata, "The Rose Maiden" at the Glendale Intermediate school.

The talent of this club and orchestra has been demonstrated to local audiences from time to time during past months, but not until last night did Glendale people sense the real worth of the organizations Mr. Myers has assembled. They witnessed the grand finale of long, earnest work and rendition of "The Rose Maiden."

It was fitting that Glendale's "Singing Mayor," Spencer Robinson, an ardent music fan, should greet the large crowd present to welcome Mr. Myers, his singers and musicians.

"Singing Mayor" Present

In addition to an address by Mayor Robinson, Mrs. Charles H. Toll, honorary president of the orchestra, and Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, president of the Choral club, spoke of the musical accomplishments of Glendale and of the good work of the Choral club and orchestra. Both mentioned today's election, urging all voters to go to the polls.

The story of "The Rose Maiden" tells of the queen of the flower fairies who becoming weary of a life of unbroken calm, flows to the newly returned spring to bestow upon her the gift of love.

Spring warns her of the risk she runs, but finally yields to her entreaties and changes her white dress into a beautiful girl. Under the name of Rose Blossom she wanders through the world to find love, and meets with a girl, who, having been betrayed and deserted by her lover, loses her senses and dies brokenhearted. But Rose Blossom becomes the wife of a forester, with whom she lives for a time in perfect happiness and when he dies she follows. Elves bewail the fate of their queen, and curse love as fatal to peace and happiness.

PUSHING BIG BORE FOR P.E. CARS

Three Shifts Working Every Day; Tunnel More Than Half Completed

All Pacific coast records of tunnel construction are scheduled to be broken if work continues on the Hollywood-Glendale-San Fernando tunnel at the rate of progress made to date. Work on the big bore, which will mean so much to Los Angeles in the relief of traffic, started on May 3, and to date the rapid transit artery to the heart of the city is 53.2 per cent completed with 42.1 per cent of the concrete lining in place. Three shifts are being worked at three locations and Sundays and holidays find no let up to the relentless progress being made by Twohy brothers, contractors.

"The actual bore is approximately 4,250 feet in length," said D. W. Pontius, vice-president and general manager of the Pacific Electric, in commenting upon the tunnel's progress, "and to date the tunnel has been driven a combined distance of about 2,260 feet and is being driven in place. The very favorable conditions have been encountered and, if soft formation and other governing factors continue, to be advantageous. I am sure a new record in tunnel construction will be attained. Our plans are complete to the most minute detail and we are working hand in hand with the contractors to complete the project at the earliest possible date."

From First street and Glendale boulevard the tunnel is being driven eastward and from Figueroa street near Fourth street the bore is being driven both east and westward. About 115 feet remains yet to be tunneled between First and Glendale and the Figueroa street location. The bore eastward from Figueroa street has progressed approximately 200 feet. Work in an easterly direction at this location was not started, however, until about the middle of September and a distance of 900 feet remains yet to be tunneled before the location of eastern portal near the Olive street school property is reached.

New Substation

During the month of October a combined total of 740 feet of bore progress was made or an average of 24 feet daily and placement of concrete lining was maintained at approximately the same pace.

A new substation and building is to be erected at Second and Toluca street to provide the additional power supply that will be required on account of the increased volume of traffic which will result when the tunnel is completed. Mr. Pontius stated that the building is now in progress and 1500 volt automatic substation equipment is en route from the east. The building and equipment will entail an expenditure of about $110,000.

Including the open cut work on either end of the tunnel the total length is about 5,000 feet.

Daily Greeting To News Readers

No man has come to true greatness who has not felt in some degree that his life belongs to his race, and that what God gives him, He gives him for mankind.—Phillips Brooks.

FINANCING THE HIGHWAYS

Highway financing will be one of the important questions to occupy the state legislature next session, and it would be well for us to give the matter some thought and let our legislators know what conclusions we reach. Sometimes our law makers are charged with voting contrary to the wishes of those they represent, but very often they do not know what their constituents wish, not being clairvoyants. A man who has served a number of terms in the legislature of California recently made the statement that in all his long period of service he had received but three communications from the people in his district in regard to measures before the legislature.

In regard to California roads, about forty per cent of the system which has been planned is uncompleted, and new needs are coming up every day. In fact, California is a year behind in her highway building program. And, the highway commission is broke. No new construction will be undertaken until funds are available.

The business of motor trucking and motor stages is growing by leaps and bounds, and these vehicles are wearing out the roads rapidly. Their regulation will have to be considered in any program of highway building and maintenance that may be adopted.

California has learned the value and importance of good roads. Hereafter we will not be satisfied with any but the best. How are they to be provided? Highway Commissioner Harvey M. Toy makes the following suggestions:

"That the gasoline tax be increased 1 per cent, and the motor vehicle fees be raised from $5 to $6, all money to go to the state to provide approximately $15,000,000 a year for highway purposes

"That interstate highway connections be financed and completed as quickly as possible.

"That the state maintain, and in some cases even construct, the highway through some of the smaller, unincorporated cities of the state.

"That usable roads in mountain and other districts, of benefit to all traffic, but now supported by counties, be maintained and improved by the state."

Supervisors of several counties in the northern part of the state have asked that the next legislature raise the gasoline tax to four cents, but the suggestion has not seemed to meet with favor in Los Angeles county.

DESERVE WEAK PRESIDENTS

The old saying that, under a democratic system the people get the kind of government they deserve, is facile optimism, according to Elmer Davis in Harper's. He contends that though neither of the three candidates for the presidency is a superman, whichever one is elected we will have a better president than we deserve, or would have acquired by our own efforts, and that "when the great, intelligent electorate is least dominated by powerful individuals, when it is most itself and its party delegates can function most in harmony with the popular thought" we get a weak president, the kind we deserve.

The average politician is incompetent, but he practices an art in which luck looms large. "Politics is the happy hunting ground of mediocrity, which, in that field stands out like genius itself." In the selection of a candidate availability is the chief consideration, and to the politician availability is something negative. A man is selected because he will make a good candidate, not necessarily a good official. It is not so much a question of who will make a good president as who can be elected.

"The fact that, despite the frequency of weak presidents, we have usually had the luck to have able presidents when we needed them lends support to the view that Divine Providence gives special attention to the welfare of the American people," says Mr. Davis. "Some of us may feel, however, that even if we have this vast deposit of mercy subject to check, we have come dangerously near overdrawing our account."

TRAFFIC CONGESTION PROBLEMS

Another suggestion regarding traffic congestion in cities comes from a Hollywood weekly publication. This is, that no pleasure vehicle be allowed to enter the congested areas unless loaded to a reasonable margin of its full capacity. The point is advanced that no one has a right to drive, simply for his own personal use, a five or seven-passenger car in congested city streets and to park it all day long in the street. This involves a waste of street space, for a single individual is taking up the room that would suffice for half a dozen.

On the surface, this suggestion sounds reasonable. It is good in theory, but could not be carried out without working great injustice. In many instances the five or seven passenger family car is used by the man of the family to drive to work. The larger car answers two purposes for the man who can afford to keep but one, a family car and a business car. He might occasionally pick up a neighbor or a friend on his way to work, but it would often be a hardship for him to have the car filled when entering the congested district.

It is a selfish person who drives alone in a big car through the congested area simply for his own pleasure, but, how are the officers to distinguish this man from those who really have some business to transact, and would it be just to penalize a man because he cannot afford to keep a small car for business use alone?

BEWARE OF THE FLATTERER

A physician says, "When a woman tells me what a scoundrel her last doctor was I know that he has not been paid—and that I won't be." This physician knows how to read human nature. It is a pretty safe bet that the man who comes to you and knocks your competitor goes to him with stories that do not compliment you. The woman who gossips with the neighbor on the north about the one on the south, is the kind of a woman who will go to the neighbor on the south with tales about the other one.

It is music in our ears to hear adulation for ourselves and disparagement of our rivals all in the same breath. It is almost too much to expect that we should not encourage the flatterer and take the flattery for a good deal more than it is worth. But, the sensible man knows the true value of that kind of apple sauce and wonders how long it will be before this fellow is knocking him.

The daily dozen fad originated on the farm where the morning job was to milk a dozen cows before breakfast.

They off' are busiest who have least to do.

Who throws mud has soiled hands.

WHO SAID NOBODY LOVES A FAT MAN?

A Candidate's Declaration

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Mr. Davis, Democratic candidate for president, said the other day in his speech at Des Moines: "The duty and interests of Americans demand that their nation should become a member of the League of Nations. I express my belief that it is not wise, prudent or safe for fifty-four nations to sit in conference and for America to be absent."

We have no desire to participate in partisan politics, nor to take stands for Mr. Coolidge, Mr. Davis or Mr. La Follette, but the question at hand is larger than partisanship. It refers to picking up the thread that was broken when the Senate repudiated the League of Nations. Mr. Davis comes out flatfooted and declares that the country should be a member of this league.

It would seem that a simple statement of the case should be sufficient. If fifty-four nations of the world are sitting in conference we cannot afford to be absent.

Either an enormous vanity or an unworthy fear could account for our isolation. The apostles of isolation have been bold enough and are positive enough in their statements. It is right and fitting that those who believe that we should participate in affairs should be equally bold and positive.

The place for the United States of America is among the other nations of the world, who are doing what they can to maintain peace. It is a singular thing that the United States, who fought the war to end all wars, is taking the stand of going along in the old way, endeavoring to prevent war by the method which has invariably failed in the past.

We know that war is not prevented by preparation and armament and all such things because it never has been prevented in that way. We know that war can be prevented by an understanding between the nations, or at least we have the hope that it can.

America inaugurated the League of Nations. In reality it is an attempt to Americanize the world and organize the world on the American principle. It is not fitting that we should desert the experiment that we undertook.

Little by little those who are in charge of the nation see the necessity of doing business with other nations and taking part in their councils. It is nothing but right and proper that America should come out flatfooted and take her place in the leadership of the world.

RULES OF THE ROAD

(Kansas City Times)
An exhaustive study of motor car accidents made by officials of Connecticut sets forth many interesting facts and conclusions, among which is a table showing that 36.8 per cent of all the accidents of that state in the period tabulated were due to disregard of right-of-way. The number of accidents thus caused was more than twice as large as that from any other cause, the next in order being 13.7 per cent, due to skidding. Other causes, in order of consequences, were inattention, failure to signal, careless backing, too fast for conditions, following another car too closely, driving on wrong side of road, confusion, cutting in, inexperience, intoxication, cutting corners.

It will be seen that nearly all these accidents, except those due to skidding, were avoidable, and doubtless many accidents due to skidding could be eliminated with proper precautions.

But there stands one big indictment—36.8 per cent due to violation of the rules of the road. How many drivers in Kansas City know the rules of the road beyond two or three primary regulations?

The tragic irony of death and injuries from motor car accidents is that nearly all of them are avoidable, even with the great increase in the number of cars.

KEEP THE PAST DARK

(Philadelphia Bulletin)

"Tell nothing."
So answered club women when asked how much of past affairs a girl should reveal to husband or fiancé.

Said Mrs. Gundaker, "I wouldn't consider I had any right to reveal anything of my former affairs to a fiancé or husband, or that I had any right to listen to his. Deal only with the present, and in doing so be guided by perfect honesty, is my belief."

Said Mrs. Cannon: "It is a wise woman who has her own sealed mausoleum of days that are gone. The quality of mutual restraint between two people is just as important as mutual confidences."

Hallowe'en Colors Decorate Hall When Students of Nanno Woods Appear

Mrs. Nanno Woods presented her pupils in recital yesterday afternoon in her new studio. The hall was appropriately decorated in Hallowe'en colors, and was filled with patrons and friends. There were two nursery rhymes dances by the baby class. June Howard, three years old, was the soloist in "Little Bo-Peep" and Tom Jamieson, also three years old, was the soloist in "Little Jack Horner." The same class gave a flower drill. June Howard, accompanied by her mother, sang two songs.

Of interest was the Galanterie dance by the beginners' class, with Florence Dadmun and Billy Croft first giving a partner exhibition, in which the whole class joined later. Pauline Dell entertained with a reading, "The Child Next Door"; and Josephine Stone recited "My Hat." A patriotic reading was given by Billy Croft. Other numbers were given danced by Robert Jencks, Ned Courtney and Weldon Kent; "Sailor's Horn pipe" by Irene Globinski; reading "Too Much Turkey" by Evelyn Lance; Thanksgiving day monologue by Louise Hill. Games were enjoyed. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Woods.

Rex Kelly will speak at the opening of the meeting and will later speak to the intermediates.

Missionary to Mexico Visiting In Glendale

Elder D. A. Parsons, superintendent of the Aztec Union Mission of Seventh-day Adventists, with headquarters in Mexico City, is visiting relatives and friends in Glendale. Elder R. W. Parmele, pastor of the Glendale church, formerly was in charge of the same district in Mexico.

My mother-in-law is going to the election booth and vote for Coolidge for prosperity. This was the first time she cast a vote in a presidential election, something new for her. She got up so early in the morning, she made some coffee from Golden Crest Blend which she bought at the Japan Art and Tea Co. She always comes to our house for coffee. She thinks our Golden Crest coffee better than her can coffee. She thinks it cheaper to board at our house than her own. "Ha! Ha!"—Advertisement, 11-4.

FOLEY PILLS REACHED THE SORE SPOT

Mrs. Ellen Reigard, South Fork, Pa., writes: "I had been suffering with my kidneys and nothing seemed to touch the aching spot until I procured FOLEY PILLS, with wonderful results." FOLEY PILLS, a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys, gently and thoroughly flush and cleanse the kidneys and help to eliminate poisonous waste matter. Try a bottle today and you will be well pleased with the relief obtained. The use of FOLEY PILLS increases kidney activity.

Stop That Backache!

Many Glendale Folks Have Found the Way.

Is a dull, nerve-racking backache wearing you out? Do you feel older and slower than you should? Are you tired, weak and nervous; find it impossible to be happy, or enjoy the good times around you? Then there's something wrong and likely it's your kidneys. Why not get at the cause? Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Your neighbors' recommendations of Doan's. Read what this Glendale resident says: Mrs. A. E. McClellan, 517 W. Dryden St., says: "My back was lame and there was a hurting through the small of it. When I stooped, sharp catches took me across my kidneys and for a time, it was difficult for me to get up or down. I tired with the least task and always had that tired, languid feeling. Dizziness, too, was another symptom. So I finally started using Doan's Pills from Roberts & Echols Drug Store and they eased my back and completely cured me of the trouble." 60c, at all dealers. FINAL ARGUMENT ON CIVIC CENTER

Dr. H. R. Harrower Gives His Stand on Project as Citizens Vote

Editor The Evening News—
Before the result of today's election is announced I would like to make some comments upon the civic center proposition, and I thank you for such space as you may give to this communication.

Very shortly after my return a month ago I was visited by D. H.
Smith, H. M. Butts and L. H.
Wilson in the interests of the civic center campaign. I told them that I was not conversant with the matter, did not know enough about it to be active, either for or against it, and therefore that they could count me "on the fence." Later I was seen by my own respected associate, R. E.
Spicer, and Herman Nelson, who gave me some information which I felt needed to be known. I therefore submitted to Mr. Smith a series of questions which, strangely enough, took several days to reach his attention, and which were answered after an extraordinary delay in the Glendale Press.

The excuse for the delay in answering these questions was that it required a great deal of research to get the information. I contend that this information should have been available to the committee before they started their work, and I consider that it is not good policy to enter into a large undertaking without all the facts thoroughly understood.

Information Lacking
I submitted these questions because I felt after listening to both sides that the unfortunate geographical partisanship which has not yet been overcome here in Glendale was a large factor in this matter.

It was suggested by Mr. Watson in his prelude to the answers to my questions that they were presumably prepared by opponents of this proposition. Not so, for it is bad policy for any organization to emphasize certain facts and ignore others. Mr. Smith has told me that I have gone back on my promise and that my position regarding the civic center was definitely opposed to it; and the city health officer, a personal friend of mine, whose position I pride myself in having had something to do in materializing, called me up, informing me that he had great plans for developing his health department which could not be accomplished without the civic center bonds being passed, and begged for my co-operation. I told him that I was not opposed to the bonds nor was I expressing myself in favor of them.

I have made no speeches, and my friends know perfectly well that my position regarding matters, civic as well as political, is always fearlessly announced to our laboratory family; and I consider that it is just as much a part of my duty to attempt to accomplish the best that I can from these standpoints as well as those directly pertaining to my business.

Favors Center
Without a doubt a majority of citizens will have been led to decide in favor of the civic center bonds, although we shall not know until tomorrow whether the necessary two-thirds voted for it.

I am distinctly in favor of a civic center. I was the man who secured from the Glendale sanitarium an option upon their entire block for $63,000. Our committee would have put this thing over had not this confounded sectionalism interfered. I have not changed my mind about the need for such a thing, but I am opposed to going off half-cocked.

I believe, in spite of the things
Mrs. Hutchinson says, and in spite of the singularity of all of the aggressive workers for the civic center bonds, that they do not know what they are getting into in the way of expense, and my sole reason for submitting the questions, which were answered so tardily and so unsatisfactorily, was that we all might have a chance to consider the thing from all the angles, discuss it, and really know about it before we came to vote for it today.

Comment Unkind
Mr. Smith and his present committee told me that the school board was definitely committed to selling this property, and I candilly think they are seriously in error. They have no excuse sufficiently valid for them to part with so valuable a property. Dr. Maybry's recent comment regarding previous disposals of school property here in Glendale at absurd prices, and the reference to what happened to the Mercantile Place property, and the advantage that finally resulted to the Los Angeles school board, is very well taken.

Dr. Maybry is right.

I realize that I am not conversant with all the facts that are known by fellow citizens on the school board. I still believe, however, that the principal excuse for the sale of this property—its central location—does not at present mitigate against its value as a school.

There has been a good deal of unkindly comment bandied around. The really board and its respected president, Pete Hanson, are handing out comments regarding the Hotel Glendale, and telling how it was only by their efforts that the thing was finally put over. I respect the really board and the good that it is accomplishing for Glendale, but your readers, perhaps, do not know that the $12,000 was pledged by various members of this board at the time when the hotel was just about to go over,
or to fall through, as the case might be, turned out to be only $2000. In other words, over 80 per cent of these promises were empty.

Cultivate Trade

It is no worse for Mr. Inglesdue to be interested in developing property in the vicinity of his own buildings than for Mr. Butts, and I do not blame Mr. Smith for his position any more than I blame Mr. Nelson for his. It is the business of bankers to cultivate their trade and it happens that the same bank through its vice-presidents in two different places in town take diametrically opposed views, and I don't blame them a particle.

I would like to say in conclusion that no matter what is done
I will be behind it for I am in favor of majority rule and will forget my opinions as soon as a complete decision is made, but I still contend that it is not good citizenship to vilify an individual because his opinions differ from one's own. And, despite the fact that my name has appeared in conjunction with those of the Glendale Advancement association —erroneously called by Mr. Smith the Glendale (Avenue) Advancement Association—I have never permitted my views to be heard or my name to be used either for or against this proposition because

MARTIAL LAW IN N. M. PROCLAIMED

Troops Sent to Las Vegas by
Gov. Hinkle to Guard
Polls in Election

LAS VEGAS, N. M., Nov. 4.—
With San Miguel county under martial law today and three national guard companies on duty in the city and on the outskirts of Las Vegas, quiet prevailed during the forenoon.

Troops were called, it was said,
when fear was expressed that illegal activities and intimidation might result in today's election as the result of a controversy among peace officers as to who was in authority as sheriff of San Miguel county. The peace officers have turned all authority over to the troopers.

Stays at Jail
Governor Hinkle ordered a detachment of national guard officers here late yesterday to enforce a supreme court decision in favor of Sheriff Del Gado's reinstatement to that office. He had been removed by Judge G. J.
Leahy, who placed Enrique Cifre in authority. The latter refused to turn over the county jail to Del Gado and continued to remain in the sheriff's office today.

Brilliant sunshine today pre-saged a heavy vote throughout the state, with Governor Hinkle declaring that "an honest vote will be had in every section of the state if it is necessary to send troops to all parts of New Mexico.

The radio equipment aboard the "Leviathan" provides for communication with points 3,000 miles distant.

I gave my word to these gentlemen, and I have kept it.

The next thing for Glendale to decide is what are we going to do with the property on Harvard street now that it is to be bought for city property, or to be sold by the school board for other purposes. I contend that sectional differences should be forgotten.
That all the facts pro and con should be set forth, that the narrowness of mind that has been very patent in this campaign, should be replaced by broadness and intelligence and we should work together for the best interests of the whole town.

NO NEW CASES OF DISEASE IS FOUND

Pneumonia to Be Stopped
By End of Week, Health
Officers Report

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4.—Only six cases of virulent pneumonia which broke out in the Mexican colony here two weeks ago were on record today, health authorities reported. Two of these are undetermined and no new cases have been reported in the last forty-eight hours.

Additional deaths from the disease brought the list of victims today to twenty-five. All of the dead, with one exception, were members of a funeral party attending services for a Mexican woman who died October 19.

The state board of health has been placed in charge of the fight against the disease. Strict quarantine is being maintained in a small area in the Mexican district of the city to which the cases are confined.

Officials of the state and city boards of health announced today that in view of the fact that no new cases had been reported there was no cause for alarm and that the disease would be entirely stamped out by the end of the week.

Constipation makes bright children dull—give them relief with Kellogg's Bran

Constipation dulls the youthful mind —makes children backward in their studies—makes them listless—and can lead to serious diseases. Constipation is a dangerous disease.

You cannot afford to take chances in getting relief. You cannot afford to experiment or put off. Kellogg's Bran brings relief—permanent relief if eaten regularly. Even in the most chronic cases of constipation it is guaranteed to bring results. If it fails, your grocer will return your money.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, has brought relief to thousands because it is ALL bran. Remember, only ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective. That is why Kellogg's Bran is recommended by doctors. It sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine. It causes regular, healthy, normal action.

For it works as nature works. It is ALL bran.

Have your children eat it regularly
—two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Try it in the wonderful recipes on every package.

The flavor is delicious—a crisp, nut-like flavor that delights the taste.
Different by far from ordinary bran,
which are unpalatable.

Begin serving Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, to your children to-day. Eat it yourself. The leading hotels and clubs serve it. Made in

When it was open to the public last Sunday.

It was also my pleasure to create The Egyptian Temple at Rossmoyne and decorate The Home of A. G. Arnold, secretary of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, the homes of Frank Hester and E. W. Felley and a number of other homes and places of business.

Trained and finer workmanship always creates finer productions, especially in interior decorative art. Nothing is more expensive than the unskilled in this profession. No man is any more capable of being his own "decorator" than he is of being his own lawyer or doctor.

A first-class practical builder can plan and construct, but for the decorations, if they are to be worthy of the name, and really beautify the home and actually make it a place of dreams and imaginative adventure, one MUST EMPLOY
THE SERVICES of a COMPETENT and TRAINED DEC-ORATOR.

My accomplished work and artistic efforts are my best spokesmen and advertisers. Give me the opportunity to make your home harmonize with your longings for exquisite, charming and beautiful surroundings. I am trained and equipped to handle the finer and most delicate kind of interior decorating.

SCARLET FEVER ANTITOXIN

So marked is the advance in preventive medicine in the last decade that it continues to have a practically free from disease within a comparatively short time. Among the advances, the advance in the science of nutrition stands out as a great practical value to every day living. With the new knowledge of nutrition, we now know how to eat for health and how to prevent deficiency diseases with their insidious underminings of the resistance to infectious diseases of all kinds.

Other discoveries are: The new Felt serum for pneumonia, which physicians believe will reduce the pneumonia deaths from 25 to 50 per cent; the Banting Insulin for the relief of diabetes (and you, dear F. P. F.'s, by your reducing and passing the good work along are teaching the prevention of diabetes, and other degenerative diseases, also); the Schick test to determine which children are susceptible to diphtheria and the toxin-antitoxin treatment to prevent that disease (we've had the antitoxin for a cure for more than a decade); and now the Dick test, similar to the Schick test, to determine which children are susceptible to scarlet fever, and the Dochez serum to cure it. A cure for scarlet fever, one of the most dangerous diseases of childhood!

For years a certain germ of the Streptococcus Hemolyticus family has been suspected as being the cause of scarlet fever, as it was always associated with other germs we were not sure and until the cause of any disease is known we work in the dark. But now, it is pretty well established by several painstaking research workers that this little sneak of a germ of the Streptococcus Hemolyticus family is the criminal. (Streptococcus, strepto, from the Greek word meaning twisted; coccus, meaning berry; Hemolysis, meaning blood destroying.)

This Streptococcus Hemolyticus is not only the cause of scarlet fever, but it hangs around to do a little destructive work in acute joint rheumatism, running ears, swollen glands, kidney inflammations, etc.

There are several scientists who have been running down this blood destroying streptococcus as the criminal causing scarlet fever. Among them are Dr. A. R. Dochez and his assistant, Lillian Sherman. Now, what did these workers do when they were positive that this germ was the cause of the disease?

Knowing how effective diphtheria antitoxin is as a cure for diphtheria when it is given early enough (we are now preventing diphtheria with the mixture toxin-antitoxin—more of this later), Dr. Dochez and his assistant determined to call in our friend, the horse, and have him make a scarlet fever antitoxin, as his brothers before had made diphtheria antitoxin. So this horse at regular periods was given increasing doses of pure culture of Streptococcus Hemolyticus, not enough to make him ill, but sufficient to make his blood cells manufacture a strong defense against the invaders; in other words, he was immunized.

They now took some of this horse's blood which was full of the anti-bodies against scarlet fever, allowed it to coagulate, then took the clear serum left after the coagulum was removed; this serum with its protective anti-scarlet fever substances, was injected into small animals, especially hogs and guinea pigs, which had been artificially infected with the scarlet fever germ. They found that the rash faded (the skin was shaved so this could be observed) and the fever and other symptoms were lessened. After being sure the serum was helpful and not harmful to these animals, they then used it on some severe cases of scarlet fever. As they expected, these patients recovered much more rapidly than those suffering from the disease who did not receive the serum.

From their work, it looks as though we will soon have on the market a scarlet fever antitoxin and instead of having the child ill with scarlet fever manufacture his own defense, and possibly die in the attempt, the defense manufactured by a healthy young horse will be used.

Dobinson Player Has Fine Record on Stage

Joseph McManus, especially engaged for the production of "Turn to the Right" by Dobinson Players, although only 28 years old, is an actor of wide experience, having played with George Arliss, Arnold Daly, Alice Brady, Alma Tell, Virginia Harned and other prominent artists. He tells this story about "Turn to the Right." At the age of 17, in October, 1924, he was aboard a boat bound for Scouset, an actor's colony in Massachusetts, when John E. Hazard was telling his idea of a plot for a new play to Winchell Smith, the playwright. Among the actors present were De Wolf Lopper and John Golden. In that sea was born the play "Turn to the Right," the comedy that has made millions of people laugh and cry, and still holds a favorite place with the public.

The Wrath To Come

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM, Copyright 1924

Gertrude was more than content with her luncheon companion on the following morning. In some subtle but unmistakable way Grant's attitude seemed to have changed. He looked at her with undisguised admiration and the table which he had selected was in the most secluded corner of the famous restaurant at the end of the Arcade. She gave a little cry of delight as she leaned over the great bowl of pink roses which were awaiting her.

"How wonderful!" she exclaimed.

"How wonderful to have you here," he murmured gallantly.

She looked at him with a faint air of surprise. Yesterday he had seemed all reserve, sometimes even cold. Today his deportment was almost that of a lover.

"Why are you so much nicer than yesterday?" she asked, as she took her place.

"My resistance is weakening," he confessed.

She gave a little sigh of content.

"I think," she confided, "that I am going to enjoy my luncheon."

But before he said another word—telling her some more about this horrible tragedy. What was it? Heart disease?

Grant nodded.

"The doctor thought so. I believe that he is making a further examination."

"Why did Naga motor all the way from the other side of Nice to see Lord Yeovil so late last night?" she enquired.

"Something to do with the meeting at Nice," he replied indifferently. "Let's talk about ourselves, Gertrude."

She allowed her hand to rest for a moment on his. Again she looked at him, half curiously, half with gratification.

"You are really much nicer than the Lyman boy," she declared, "and I thought that I should have to rely upon him for a flirtation."

"You'll do nothing of the sort," he announced brusquely.

"Mayn't I dine with him?"

"No," was the firm reply. "He has his work to attend to and you have me to look after."

"Well," she decided, "we will postpone the discussion."

"If a flirtation is necessary to your peace of mind and contentment of spirit," he continued, "I must dig into the memories of my own sombre past."

"Dear me," she sighed, "I am afraid poor Otto is going to be jealous."

"I was very jealous of him once," Grant reminded her. "It's my turn now."

"How much are you in earnest?" she asked curiously.

"I shall endeavor to show you."

"The life of an attractive woman," she murmured, "is full of complications."

"So are the lives of her victims," he commented. "Besides, there happens to be a little owing to this particular victim."

"Owing?" she repeated.

"I mean it. If you have any thoughts to spare from your husband, any kindness to give, any affection to bestow, these gifts belong to me."

Again she looked at him searchingly.

"Why are you so changed since yesterday?"

"Yesterday the old soreness had come back," he explained. "I loved you and hated you. Today things seem to have fallen into a clearer perspective. I don't hate you any more."

"And do you—love me a little?"

He looked into her eyes which, before his earnest gaze, became faintly troubled.

"Grant," she whispered, "I don't know whether I want you to talk to me like this. I have a horrible feeling somehow that you're not serious. And besides—supposing I were to lose my head?"

"Even then," he said, "you might look upon it as atonement."

"She became silent for a time, obviously disturbed. The subjects

MURPHY COMEDIANS

"Peg o' My Heart" is drawing capacity audiences to the tent theatre of Murphy Comedians No. 2, San Fernando boulevard at Cedar street, Burbank, reports J. W. Davis, manager. Barbara Gurney as Peg is charming and gets frequent applause. John Hughes, her able support, also comes in for numerous handclaps. The offering owes no little of its success to the able direction of Vin Moore, who is in addition a splendid actor.

The tent is comfortably heated and there is ample parking space for the cars of all patrons. Mr. Davis states. The gratifying support of Burbank and Glendale theatregoers makes it appear likely that Murphy Comedians No. 2 are in for an extended run at the present location.

"Peg o' My Heart" will continue throughout the week, the curtain rising nightly at 8:15 o'clock. The tent is open from 7:15 o'clock on, to afford patrons an opportunity to select their seats, it is announced by Mr. Davis.

THE GATEWAY

A shining example of cinema fortune's favorite is Marion Davies, star of many notable Cosmopolitan productions, the latest of which is "Yolanda," now showing the last times today at the Gateway theatre, with a cast of notable stage and screen players, such as Lynn Harding, Holbrook Blyn, Ralph Graves, Macklyn Arbuckle, Theresa Maxwell Conover, Mary Kennedy, Gustav von Seyffertitz, Johnny Dooley and others in her support.

In a few short years Miss Davies has become one of the ablest as well as most popular of motion picture stars. It was but a few seasons ago that she was appearing in the chorus of "Chu Chin Chow."

Miss Davies was born in Brooklyn, New York, a trifle more than a score of years ago. She is the daughter of Judge and Mrs. Bernard Douras and attended the Brooklyn grammar school. She then entered a convent in New York City, devoting special attention to dramatic arts, French literature and music. She proved an apt pupil and left school at a very young age. As she felt a strong call to the stage she obtained a position in the chorus of "Chu Chin Chow" because of her beauty and the charm of her personality. She went from that into "Oh Boy!" and was then chosen for the Ziegfeld "Follies."

Miss Davies then went into motion pictures with the Cosmopolitan company and has appeared in thirteen photoplays for it. Her first smashing hit was as Princess Mary Tudor in the production of another Charles Major novel, "When Knighthood Was in Flower."

That production not only made a tremendous amount of money, but brought Miss Davies praise from critics all over the world and gave her rank as one of the great screen stars of the day. Her grip on stardom has been strengthened by her part O'Day in "Little Old New York" and her Princess Mary of Burgundy in "Yolanda."

THE T. D. & L.

"The Border Legion" concludes today at the T. D. & L. theatre. Wednesday and Thursday the feature is "Sinners in Heaven."

DOBINSON PLAYERS

"Turn to the Right" will open at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse Wednesday for another week, announces Mrs. Florence Dobinson of the Dobinson Players. There will be a 2:30 o'clock Wednesday matinee and 8:15 o'clock performances Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, with a 2:30 o'clock Saturday matinee.

The Dobinson Players are presenting strong professional shows at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, with competent casts of professional people, and "Turn to the Right" is one of the best of their offerings. Mrs. Dobinson stresses the fact that this company is offering neither "high-brow" nor "low-brow" entertainment but plays of average appeal that will interest the whole family.

"Turn to the Right" is one of the best plays ever produced in America and has a wide appeal. It is a drama of mother love and one of its chief characters is a boy struggling to go straight.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SPOT CAT

"Dear me, Uncle Wiggily! What's that on your coat?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one morning, as the rabbit gentleman was about to hop away from his hollow stump bungalow, to go look for an adventure.

"Something on my coat?" cried Mr. Longears. "Don't tell me the Fuzzy Fox or the Skilley Scallery Alligator has hold of my coat tails!" And Uncle Wiggily turned around and around, trying to look behind him.

"Oh, no, it isn't any of the bad chaps on your coat!" laughed Nurse Jane. "But I see a lot of spots on your coat—grease spots and dirt spots. You must send your coat away and have it cleaned."

"Yes, but I can clean the spots off my coat myself," said Mr. Longears. "I will take some gasoline or petrol, as my English friends would call it, out of my automobile. I will mix the gasoline with some soap and with that I will take the spots off my coat."

"All right, if you think you can do it," said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "But I think you had much better send it to the cleaner's."

"I'll be the cleaner—with my soap and gasoline—I'll be the cleaner!" laughed the bunny rabbit, just like Cock Robin.

Nurse Jane also laughed, and then she went down town to the 3 and 4-cent store to buy a new piano. Uncle Wiggily took off his coat, mixed up some soap and gasoline in a pan, and started cleaning the spots off his coat.

Now in the woods, not far from Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow, there lived, in a deep, dark, dismal den, a queer animal called a Spot Cat. This had chap, who was something like the spotted Leopard, and a little like the spotted Hyena, but not as large. However, he was very pleasant to meet on a moonlight night, or even on a dark night, if you ask me.

And when Fuzzy Fox hiding in the woods, saw Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy going to the 3 and 4-cent store to buy a new piano, the Fox ran to the den of the Spot Cat and cried:

"Quick, now! Nurse Jane is out! Uncle Wiggily is all alone. Go to his bungalow and catch him. Spot Cat. Go get Uncle Wiggily."

"I will!" howled the Spot Cat, who had long wanted to nibble the bunny gentleman's ears.

So the Spot Cat went on tip-toes through the hollow stump bungalow, reached the hollow stump bungalow, and saw the rabbit rubbing away at something on the ironing board, which he had placed over two chairs.

"Maybe he's polishing his paw nails," thought the Spot Cat. "I'll slip in the door and grab him!"

Into the kitchen went the Spot Cat. His claws went scribble scribble on the oil cloth. Uncle Wiggily turned from where he was cleaning his coat with soap and gasoline. The bunny saw the bad Spot Cat.

"Oh, what a lot of spots on you!" cried the bunny. "You are all spotted. You can't be allowed to go around that way. I'll clean those spots off for you, as I cleaned my coat."

"No! No!" howled the Spot Cat. "My spots won't come off!"

"I'll get them off!" laughed the bunny. With that he threw a lot of gasoline and soap all over the bad chap. The soap got in his

New Method Heals Pyorrhea

Ten Year Bad Case Completely
Healed in a Short Time
Writes Florida
Woman

Faced with the loss of her teeth, after 10 years' suffering, Mrs. M. J. Travis, an esteemed resident of Jacksonville, declares she finally saved her teeth by a simple home treatment: "worth its weight in gold," using her own words: "After having pyorrhea for 10 years my mouth is now healed. Before I found out differently I was told there was no relief and had yielded to the loss of six fine solid teeth. Then I discovered Moore's pyorrhea treatment. Three days after starting its use, the soreness left my gums; my teeth began to tighten. Now my teeth are clean, my breath sweet and my mouth completely healed."

The experience of Mrs. Travis is duplicated in hundreds of other cases. If you have pyorrhea—or threatened with pyorrhea—your teeth are in danger. Quick and effective treatment is necessary. You can test, without money risk, the treatment used by Mrs. Travis. Simply write the Moreham Co., 206 Gateway Station, Kansas City, Mo. Under their guarantee of refund send two dollars. Or, pay postman the $2 with few cents postage. Use the treatment seven days. Then if you are not wholly satisfied, write to that effect and your $2 will be returned at once.—Advertisement.

Glendale Artist Does Millea Home Painting

J. S. Schultz, responsible for painting and interior decoration of the Millea home on Cumberland avenue is considered an artist in his line. Skill, technique, and creative work that mark his efforts in beautifying the Millea home demonstrate the mastery of Mr. Schultz over his art. Interior decorations are original. Especial attention was given the breakfast room credited with being the only one of its kind in the country. Colorful marble in the hall, English Gothic friezes, old processional lanterns, romantic enchantments of the living room, "The Return of the Galleon," mantel painting, and the quaint wrought iron grilles that separate the solarium and living room; and Chinese and Japanese decorations, make this home unique through efforts of Mr. Schultz, who lately has made his office at 249 North Brand boulevard.

CANDY SHOP NOW IN NEW LOCATION

Sister Polly Co. Is Being Incorporated; Employees
Are Stockholders

Glendale soon may have another incorporated industry of national renown in the Sister Polly Co., candy manufacturers, just removed to a larger and more commodious plant at 223 South Brand boulevard. The concern is being incorporated with capital stock of $100,000. It is less than six months old.

The business was organized and established by Fred Sturges at 239 South Verdugo road, June 1, last. There are now twenty-three stockholder-employees. The concern's sales territory embraces all of Southern California, and soon will be extended throughout the country.

The Sister Polly Co. is a co-operative workers' industry in which 90 per cent of net profits are distributed among employees. Every employee is a stockholder and it is a close corporation. Established retail business of the concern, which covers this section of California, will be supplemented by a wholesale service, directly.

The new and enlarged plant, at 223 South Brand boulevard, will be the center of a contemplated chain of shops and distribution agencies, to be extended as practicable. A retail store will be maintained in connection with the manufacturing plant, which will be the only place in Glendale where Sister Polly candies may be purchased.

The company makes and distributes special and individual lines of candy and will emphasize a distinct California product, chocolate-dipped orange-crystals, to be distributed throughout the United States and abroad in lithographed boxes.

Fred Sturges is business manager of the company. John McKibbin supervises the candy manufacture. John A. Paul is accountant identified with the sales department. L. W. Thomson, long a resident of Glendale, is a director. It is announced that Glendale will remain the headquarters of the industry.

Glendale To Be Host To Colorado Tourists

Glendale will be host to many tourists from Colorado this winter, according to W. K. Cundiff, assistant general passenger agent of the Union Pacific at Denver. Mr. Cundiff was a visitor here on Saturday. He said that many calls for information concerning Glendale, which are received at the Denver office of the Union Pacific, was the reason for his stop-off here before returning to Colorado. The influx of travel from the highlands of the neighboring state will commence immediately after election, Mr. Cundiff believes.

My mother-in-law bought a bottle of Peruna, and one morning she drank half of it, and she had the Peruna Jag. So we made some black coffee to sober her up. Then again we made the real Mocha and Java coffee with pure cream, known as Golden Crest Blend, bought at the Japan Art and Tea Co. She thought this was the most delicious coffee she ever tasted in her life. Now she is going to buy all her coffee at the Japan Art and Tea Co. "Banzai!" Advertisement, 11-4.
